Nelson Brothers, Inc. Announces Strategic Restructuring to Strengthen Focus on Specialty Chemicals

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Nelson Brothers, Inc. (NBI) today announced a strategic restructuring agreement with Orica that will unwind the companies’ joint venture ownership and position both organizations for long-term success.

Upon completion of the transaction, Nelson Brothers will fully own and operate its Specialty Chemicals business, including emulsifiers for explosives, while Orica will fully own and operate the commercial explosives business. The move marks a significant milestone for Nelson Brothers and reinforces the company’s long-term commitment to the specialty chemicals markets it serves.

“We believe this step positions Nelson Brothers for a strong future,” said Tony Nelson, CEO of Nelson Brothers, Inc. “We look forward to continuing to serve customers with increased investment in innovation, capabilities, and our people.”

Nelson Brothers believes the transition will strengthen its foundation and enable the company to continue building a specialty chemicals platform designed to serve customers, employees, and partners for decades to come.

“Nelson Brothers’ Specialty Chemicals organization will continue operating with our dedicated teams and with the commitment that customers rely upon today,” said Dave Pristic, Executive Vice President of Specialty Chemicals. “We are excited about the opportunity to deliver innovative solutions to the markets and customers we serve.”
